During the investigation, evidence was uncovered that supports the following findings: Tracy was using the alias Coral and that Pat was using the alias Perry. Tracy was motivated by financial gain in planning the stamp heist due to running into some money troubles. Emails originating from Tracy's and Pat's personal email containing details of the National Gallery DC stamp letters. Digitech Inc. found evidence indicating that Tracy was formulating a plan to steal stamps with Pat. The data collected is from Tracy's phone, and the email associated with the Apple ID is 'tracysumtwelve@gmail.com'. Also, her work email 'tracy.sumtwelve@nationalgallerydc.org' was setup on this phone, along with another email address under the alias name Coral Blue. Tracy is a supervisor at the NGDC. She is colluding with her brother, Pat (Perry), and his accomplice, King (Kart), to steal stamps at the NGDC. She is also getting some help from her colleague Carry (Cat) at NGDC to get some pictures on a tablet.

Evidence relating to theft of valuable stamps

This sub-section provides details regarding the evidence found as it relates to the theft of valuable stamps.

Tracy came across the valuable stamp collection exhibit as shown in 'Mailbox Data Structure'. Tracy (Coral) emails Pat (Perry) mentioning that some interesting foreign exhibit is going to happen and that from assessing the paperwork she feels that it would be a big deal. They also show Tracy and Pat being interested in stealing it since it's small and valuable. Pat tries to enroll a guy called King, who has a criminal history and is currently out on parole, into the heist by intimidation and blackmail. King agrees to be a part of the heist and sends out a list of requirements. Pat then forwards the list to Tracy along with instructions on how to access the attachment over SMS, which Tracy then acknowledges. Tracy also emails the Insurance documents regarding the stamp collection exhibit which were marked as confidential to Pat. Tracy's iPhone also has multiple photos of the stamps mentioned in the insurance documents. All these pieces of evidence make it clear that Pat and Tracy were conspiring to steal valuable stamps.

Images from Tracy's phone show photos of Gallery Stamps. These were taken prior to the heist. The Geo-Location of these images shows that they were taken at the Museum, showing that Tracy took them while being there. We think that this is information leading to the accusation that she may have been sending them to people or taking them to show people later on.

Evidence relating to defacement of museum art

This sub-section provides details regarding the evidence found as it relates to the defacement of museum art.

Carry reached out to Tracy, they met over lunch. In the same email, Carry asks Tracy for help sneaking in a tablet into the National Gallery for a flash mob event she was planning. Carry also mentions that she would compensate Tracy for her help. Tracy agrees to sneak in the tablet and a meeting is set for the hand-off at 9. Also, Carry asked for information on security shift change from Tracy in exchange for compensation. Tracy, agrees to pass off the security shift information. Tracy receives notifications from Google+ informing her that Carry added her to a circle and that she shared something with her on Google+. In one of these notifications was the suggestion to add Alex JFamEleven who was a part of Carry's circles. Tracy messaged carry asking about how the flash mob was going. This message and earlier communication together present a view that Tracy although a part in leaking information and smuggling in the tablet, was not aware of anything more in the plot.
